Cihantimur Fat Transfer Course

This Course Will Consist of Presentation and Live Treatment With Doctor B.

The Live Treatment Will Be Conducted with the Team of Participating Doctors and they will watch and live practice the operation.

The “Cihantimur Fat Transfer” method uses a closed system to obtain, process and re-deliver the fat tissue in order to decrease the fat tissue contamination with the environment, This Method Can be Applied Face, lips, cheeks, breast hands, buttocks, genital area, upper and lower legs are the areas that autologous fat tissue can be transferred to. In patients with volume loss, scar tissue or patients who need reconstructive surgery the autosomal fat tissue can be used in order to provide volume. Old and vulnerable fat cells are distinguished from the young and healthy ones and only the young and healthy adipocytes are delivered to the recipient site.

In some old techniques and some recent techniques the distinguishing process is not involved to the procedure. In these techniques the viability of the transferred fat tissue was not satisfying often resulting in patients’ complains as “the fat transfer did not last too long”, “the volume is the same as before”. Then; surgeons started to deliver more volume than what is necessary to achieve a desired volume after death of old and vulnerable cells. And this led to some early postoperative problems like excessive and prolonged edema, unsustainable and unpredictable results.
